Daniel Brumberg is an Associate Professor in the Department of Government at Georgetown University and a Special Advisor to the United States Institute of Peace. He received his B.A. in French and Political Science from Indiana University, and his Ph.D. from the University of Chicago.

The author of many articles on political and social change in the Middle East and wider Islamic World, Brumberg's Reinventing Khomeini: The Struggle for Reform in Iran was published in April 2001 by University of Chicago Press. He is also co-editor, with Larry Diamond and Marc Plattner, of Islam and Democracy in the Middle East, (Johns Hopkins University Press, 2003), and author of Moyen Orient: L'Enjeu Democratique (Editions Michalon, 2002).

A member of the Editorial Board of the Journal of Democracy and Political Science and Politics, Brumberg also serves on the Advisory Board of the International Forum on Democratic Studies. He regularly serves as a Visiting Professor at Sciences Po in Paris and San Martin University in Buenos Aires, and has been the recipient of research grants from the MacArthur Foundation, the Social Science Research Council and the United States Institute of Peace.

Brumberg teaches courses on Third World political development, the sociology of ideology, and comparative politics in the Islamic world. He is currently writing a comparative study of Islamists and power sharing in the Middle East and South East Asia.
